DARK-HUNTER®

The world is seldom what it seems. The lines between life and death, and good and evil are blurred. Yet through the betrayal and pain there is always humor and hope. There is always tomorrow— a time when...

Things can really get screwed up.

The only question is if you were sentenced to die horrifically and painfully in the prime of your youth for something your distant ancestors did...

How far would you go to live one more day?

This is a war that is unseen by most humans. A universe that exists side by side with our own. In plain sight and yet carefully shielded. Where strangers are predators who will take much more than just your life...

They will take your immortal soul.

The only protection we have is a group who is even darker and deadlier than those who prey on us. Styled the Dark-Hunters because they hunt at night, they are the predators who stalk the most frightening creatures ever born.

Vampires, demons and gods who believe we are nothing but cattle or toys to be killed and discarded as soon as they're done with us. The life of a Dark-Hunter is solitary and dangerous, but they love every minute of it. These men and women, each one unique and lethal, wrote the book on attitude and sarcasm, and their world has just been exposed...

*“Let me give you the job description. Me, Dark-Hunter.
You, Daimon. I hit. You bleed. I kill. You die.”
~Zarek of Moesia, Night Embrace*

There's a new kind of vampire in town...
Mad, bad and immortal, they're fighting for you.
